of the buildings to the distance of 100 feet - Part of which line was the front of a smaller church, erected after the fall of the Cross by the same church, but more demonstrated -

At a considerable distance from the present Church, in different parts of the Church Grounds, there are discovered on opening graves, though no bones were left above ground.

The Red-tailed gull H. A. g. were probably situated on the south side of the channel, on grounds where gulls are occasionally seen in that direction.
